Gleanings Here, There and Everywhere,

But Mostly In Oxford County

BY LEONARD B. CHAPMAN.

(The Maine State Musical Association will close its seventeenth annual three day's public entertainment at Portland on Wednesday the 8th day of this month with Prof. William R. Chapman of Bethel serving as chief director as he has done each year, and as the records of the antecedents of the association as presented to the public by a metropolitan newspaper contributor appear to be very interesting reading, particularly the references made to the Professor, the article in full is here copied, as follows, feeling sorry that I cannot give the name of the paper in which it appeared with date of issue)

"J. OTIS SWIFT'S GOTHAM GOSSIP.

The Story of William R. Chapman's Early Life in Bethel and New York."

"Last Tuesday night at the Waldorf-Astoria the Rubenstein Club of New York began its fifteenth season by a concert in the beautiful ball room of the hotel. This is the most select musical organization in New York, and numbers among its members many from the first ranks of the Four Hundred. Prof. W. R. Chapman of Bethel, Me., is the conductor. His wife, the charming music lover, who has worked so hard for music in Maine, is a member. Mrs. Annie Louise Cary Raymond and Mrs. Hugh J. Chisholm are two of the Maine women who are on the Board of Patrons. Mrs. Raymond was one of the founders, when Mr. Chapman got the musical people of the inner 400 together, fifteen years ago, and organized the society.

"The concert of Tuesday was a delightful affair. The Club is composed of ladies, and its concerts are of a private nature and combine a social element with the musical. The concert programs are composed of part songs and madrigals rendered by the Club, with the addition of one or more solo artists; frequently members of the Club also appear as soloists. The active membership is limited to seventy-five and includes many of the leading church and concert soloists. The boxes at the concert in the Waldorf-Astoria ball room sold for $50 each, while single tickets were $1.50. It was one of the most delightful affairs that I ever attended at this famous New York hostelry, and I have attended many there. Among the solos were several of Kate Vannah's.

"Sitting in a corner of the great reception room of the hotel after the concert I heard the story of William R. Chapman—a story of pathos, great ambition, obstacles overcome by hard work and natural genius; overcome also by a brave heart, an optimistic disposition, and a natural magnetism possessed by few men.

"The Rev. W. R. Chapman of Bethel, Maine, was a New York clergyman of fifty years ago. His wife was a gifted Massachusetts woman, a lover of music, and was possessed of a sweet, strong voice of much value. While Jenny Lind was traveling in America she had for one of her chief soloists and concert singers the mother of the Maine Festival leader. It was no wonder that the young Bethel minister, making a way for himself in New York, fell in love with this understudy of Jenny Lind. It was a musical affair, and they were very happily wed in New York, some forty-five years ago.

"Mrs. Chapman loved her minister husband and she dreamed long day-dreams of a son who should have his energy and magnetism and also be a great artist, a musician. One summer they went home to Bethel. The great mountains frowning on each side of the Androscoggin and looking down upon the village of Mayville were strangers to her. But she thought it an auspicious place for her son to be born, and she was happy. It was the old Chapman farm, the homestead of the family.

"When the present William R. Chapman was thirteen weeks old his father died. I do not know the cause of his death, but perhaps the

LYON - CARTER

PRETTY WEDDING ON PARK ST.

The marriage of Miss Barbara Allen Carter and Mr. Edward P. Lyon took place on the evening of Oct. 1st at the residence of her mother on Kimball Park. The festivities were conducted with a simplicity, made beautiful, by such service as only loving hearts can give. All saddened thoughts were resolutely put aside and it was, in truth, a joyous and happy time, and we hope will be a symbol of the life of the bride and groom in the years to come.

The service, read by the Rev. W. C. Curtis, was dignified and impressive. The bride was given away by her mother. The ceremony was performed under a canopy of forest green with flowers and autumn foliage.

To the strains of the wedding march the bride and groom came in between chains of white ribbon, evergreen and flowers carried by Misses Florence and Julia Carter, Mildred Hapgood, Carrie King, Frances Carter and Susan King. Mrs. J. W. Carter presided at the piano.

The bride's gown was white crepe de chine over white satin, and she carried bride roses, her only ornament was a chain and pendant, the gift of the groom.

The presents were varied and beautiful. The living rooms were decorated with asters, sweet peas, autumn leaves and evergreen, the dining room with pink ribbon, carnations, ferns and other cut flowers.

Mrs. J. W. Carter and Miss Julia Carter served refreshments, and distributed the wedding cake.

The old fashioned bride's cake, cut by Mrs. Lyon, contained many gifts, put there by the fairies, presumably, and found by many of the party more or less appropriately.

After the refreshments were served much amusement was caused when it became known that the bride and groom had disappeared, only a chosen few being in the secret.

In our grandmother's days in complimenting a young lady, it was a pretty custom to say, "May I dance at your wedding?" This became literally true at this wedding, for after the happy pair were gone the older people danced the Virginia reel much to the entertainment of the younger ones, and the sisters of the bride were made to conform to other old time customs, to the delight of the guests.

The good wishes bestowed on the young people were as unnumbered as the flowers of the confetti showered upon them as they went up the stairs.

May life's best gift, of happy love,
  attend you,
 Walk closely with you, through the coming years
Filling your hearts, good courage may it lend you
 To bear together, all life's frowns and tears.

May sweet content, your every foot
  step follow,
 Through all life's changing ways,
  nor ever cease,
Your steps to guide, your steadfast
  love to hallow,
 That all your paths be pleasantness and peace.

OXFORD COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION

The Oxford County Sunday School Association held last Wednesday at the Bethel Methodist church a convention which the President, Dr. Buck, of South Paris, declared was the best attended and most helpful meeting of the association for several years.

At the forenoon session the Secretary of the State Association gave a clear and interesting address on the relation of the organization to the individual schools, and the importance of intelligently and generously supporting its work.

At the noon hour about forty delegates from out of town enjoyed together the dinner provided by the ladies of the entertaining church at Odd Fellows Hall.

In the afternoon Prof. W. S. Wight led the opening song service, and Rev. L. G. March of Vassalboro contributed special music. At the business session new plans were taken under consideration for increasing the efficiency of the county association in reaching the different sections of its scattered constituency.

Rev. L. G. March outlined a house to house canvas of his home town which he illustrated by the use of a large map. He showed how churches could co-operate in making such a survey, and how practical results could be made to follow it. Mr. P. E. Stone of Norway spoke helpfully on the Graded Systems in Sunday School work, and Rev. W. C. Curtis on the Boys' Work. These addresses were followed by discussions which added many points to those made in the formal addresses.

At the evening meeting, the features were addresses by Mr. Wier and Rev. L. G. March, the former on the great World's Sunday School Convention at Zurich, and the latter on Six Vital Points in Sunday School Work.

To their appreciation of the program, the visiting delegates added many words of praise for the convention village and the hospitality of the entertaining church.

"RALLY WEEK" AT THE METHODIST CHURCH.

This was planned as an extension of the familiar Rally Sunday which we associate with Sunday School work more particularly. If an attractive program, special invitations, and committees to bring about a general waking up of the Sunday School is good, why may not the same ideas help other church organizations in the same manner? The Methodist church claims the right of answering the question, because of the undoubted success of the plans of the past week. Each of the societies participating in the program entered heartily into the plan, the attendance was large at each service, and a spirit of helpfulness and of unity was in evidence which was near akin to enthusiasm, and promises much for the later work of this church.

At the Roll Call of church members on Tuesday evening eighty seven answered to their names. On Thursday evening the ladies of the local Woman's Missionary Societies offered a program of exceptional interest with Miss Agnes Vose of Portland as the principal speaker. Friday afternoon the members of the Cradle Roll and their mothers were provided with entertainment and refreshments at the vestry through the efficient interest of Mrs. Angie Patlo, the Cradle Roll Superintendent, and her company of helpers. On Friday evening, the Young Men's Christian League of the church and the Loyal Workers society of young women united to give their program of music, readings, and addresses, closing with a very enjoyable social at which ice cream and cake were served.

On Sunday the Sunday School had right of way. A special program, "The Comrades of the Cross," was given with the help of the choir in place of the usual preaching service. Then the Superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. A. C. Adams, took charge and conducted the opening exercises of the school, followed by a brief word of welcome and an earnest word of exhortation. Reports from the secretary and each of the classes were given, and the pastor announced that a New Year's party or banquet would be given to the class making the best record in attendance for the ensuing three months.

The attendance was exceptionally large at both the evening services also, making this a red letter day for the whole church. The presence and help of Rev. C. I. Spear of South Paris, on Tuesday evening, and of Rev. Alexander Hamilton of Old Orchard and formerly of Bethel, on Friday and Sunday evenings, added much to the program of the week.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the church is maturing plans for their annual Harvest Supper and Fair on October 16th, and the Loyal Workers have secured Miss Marion Evelyn Starke, a talented reader of wide reputation, for an entertainment on the evening of October 22nd.

OBITUARIES

MRS. MARY L. (YOUNG) HAPGOOD.

Mrs. Mary L. Hapgood went home to join the many friends who had preceded her, early last Saturday morning, Oct. 4.

She had not been in her usual health since last spring but was able to be about the house until within a few days of her decease.

She was born in Gray, Me., Apr. 14, 1833, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Young. Her parents moved to Bethel when she was but seven years old. Her husband, John F. Hapgood, died ten years ago.

Their home was one of hospitality and friendship which people liked to visit.

Mrs. Hapgood was one of the world's workers. "She looked well to the ways of her household and ate not the bread of idleness."

For more than two years she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Lyon, of Bethel village; and she was buried from the home of Mrs. Lyon, Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 7th. There was a large attendance of old friends and neighbors. Rev. W. C. Curtis officiated.

Besides Mrs. Lyon she is survived by a brother in Missouri; three sons, George, Frank and Fred; two granddaughters, Mrs. Harry Parsons, of Portland, and Miss Mildred Hapgood, of Bethel, and three great-grandchildren.

She rests from her labors and her works do follow her.

MR. MICHAEL M. O'RIELLY.

Mr. Michael M. O'Rielly passed away at his home in West Bethel, Friday, Oct. 3rd.

He was united in marriage in 1901 with Miss Maude Merrow and they have always made their home at West Bethel.

Mr. O'Rielly having been in poor health for almost a year was most tenderly cared for by his wife who is left to mourn his loss.

The funeral services were held from the Union church, Oct. 5th, Rev. J. H. Little speaking words of comfort. The burial was in charge of Mr. J. B. Roberts of Hanover. Interment at Pine Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. C. M. Mason presided at the morning session, and Mrs. Smith in the afternoon. There was a report of work, in the State, in North Carolina and in Japan. At noon dinner was served in the banquet room, where all enjoyed a social hour.

MURDER AT RUMFORD

Another tragedy occurred at the Joe Bill house on High street, Sunday, when Luigi Reias and Mario Balba became angry at each other over a game of cards. According to the accounts of the police these two men with several others who were present and indulging in the game of cards had a scrap in which Reias and Balba rolled down a flight of stairs, wrestling for the control of a revolver which Balba had. During this time Balba drew the revolver on Reias and succeeded in shooting him through the eyes fatally; even after being fatally wounded Reias was able to turn the revolver on Balba and fire a shot into his throat. The officers were summoned and removed Balba to the hospital where it is thought he will recover. He is under police surveillance and will be held on the charge of killing Reias.

Reias was thirty-five years of age and was employed by the Water District as boss of a ditching gang. He leaves a widow and two children. Coroner Elliott held an inquest on Monday morning which lasted into the afternoon, the result of which was that the jury brought in a verdict of "Death by the hand of Mario Balba."

RECEPTION AT CANTON FOR MR. AND MRS. FLOYD COLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cole of Marblehead, Mass., arrived in town, Thursday night, to visit his mother, Mrs. Susie Cole, aunt, Mrs. Evie Burke, and uncles, Andrew P. York and Ervin York and families.

The young couple were married Oct. 1st, at the residence of the bride's father, Knott B. Martin, of Marblehead. Mr. Cole is an electrician, and has held a fine position in Chichuahua, Mexico, for over three years. Mrs. Cole has been a stenographer in Boston for some time past. Mr. Cole has given up his position in Mexico and the young couple will make their home in the states.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. A. P. York entertained a few friends at their home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Cole, which was a very pleasant occasion. Games, music and social intercourse were enjoyed until a late hour. Delicious refreshments were served in the dining room which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with bright autumn leaves, potted plants, and yellow and white crepe paper, streamers of which extended from the hanging lamp to the sides of the room, while asters and pansies were the table decorations, and appropriate place cards were used, an especially prepared favor being placed at the plate of the bridegroom. The menu consisted of orange cocktail, creamed lobster, and peas on toast, fancy crackers, fruit punch, nuts, and confectionery of all kinds.

Canton friends are pleased to greet Mr. Cole, who formerly resided in town, and bride, and extend hearty congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy wedded life.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Pleasant Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

Such things as honor and love and faith are not only nobler than food and drink, but indeed I think that we desire them more, and suffer more sharply for their absence.—Robert Louis Stevens.

Culture is not measured by the greatness of the field which is covered by our knowledge, but by the nicety with which we can perceive relations in that field, whether great or small.

STORING VEGETABLES.

Potatoes should have plenty of air-slacked lime sprinkled among them when stored, as the lime will absorb the moisture and prevent sprouting or rotting. If the cellar is very warm the potatoes may begin growth later on, and the sprouts must be rubbed off, as they take the life out of the potato.

Turnips, beets, carrots and such vegetables as can not be left in the ground, will retain their crispness and juiciness if packed in layers of sand or garden soil. If the cellar is too dry, and they begin to shrivel, water should be sprinkled over the top of the soil to moisten, but not make it wet. The sand or soil should be about as moist as the soil naturally is. Tubers and roots should be kept as moist as when taken from the ground.

Onions and apples should be laid on shelves, and be kept as cool as possible, but not allowed to freeze.

In all underground storages for the family supply of vegetables, fruits, milk, butter, lard, etc., it is essential that all noxious gases be eliminated. Charcoal is an absorbent of gas, and should be set about in the cellar to purify and sweeten the atmosphere wherever unwholesome gases are liable to exist. Lime will absorb moisture, and sweeten the air, also. Where milk, butter, or other foods that readily absorb odors are stored, a dish of charcoal should be set near them. Underground cellars should be kept clean and sweet, as the vapors, gases and odors arising from the contents during the winter may bring sickness to the rooms above.

THE COOK'S RETORT.

"Mary, when I hired you, you said you were a competent cook. I wish you'd cook something we can eat."

"And I wish you'd eat something I can cook," was her reply.—Detroit Free Press.

WOMAN A GREAT SUFFERER

Tells How She Was Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Grayville, Ill.—"I was a great sufferer of female complaints for a year and I got nothing that helped me until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was irregular and had cramps so bad that I had to go to bed. Now I have better health than I have had for years and I cannot speak too highly of your medicine."—Mrs. JESSIE SCHAAR, 413 Main St., Grayville, Ill.

Case of Mrs. Tully.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and am now as well as ever."—Mrs. WILLIAM TULLY, 2858 Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

YOU CAN'T EAT APPETITE POOR

Multitudes of people lose their appetite. Simply don't care for anything to eat. The dinner bell has no interest to them. They loathe their breakfast. They may nibble a little of this and a little of that, but they do not care for it.

Lunch has lost all of its charms, although they try to eat something.

Dinner about the same.

There is something positively wrong, of course, but no disease that can be named. Just out of sorts. That is all.

It is in this kind of a condition that Peruna acts very beneficially.

After using Peruna, interest in food is revived. Beginning with a teaspoonful of Peruna before each meal will generally quickly improve the appetite and help the digestion.

Thousands of people can testify to this. Liberated from a slavery that is almost unbearable. The slavery of having no interest in life. All used up. Yet one does not know exactly why. Take Peruna before each meal. Skies will get blue again. Fields will look green once more and life will be pleasant. You will feel that you are good for something and the world is a good place to live in. Peruna will do it. Not as an artificial stimulant. Simply a tonic that stimulates appetite in a natural way.

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

The railroad system of New England is aptly called "the neighborhood railroad".

BECAUSE:—

65,000 of your neighbors own it's stock.

80,000 of your neighbors are employed.

This means that 38,000,000 dollars are distributed by this one industry to your neighbors.

I was quite miserable about two years ago, suffering from an attack of kidney trouble There were pains in my back and the kidney secretions were unnatural and irregular in passage. I lost much weight, due to loss of rest, as I had to arise many times during the night. Reading of others who had been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, I tried them. I was cured and I have had no sign of the trouble since."

BEYOND.

It seemeth such a little way to me
Across to that strange country, the Beyond;
And yet not strange—for it has grown to be
The home of those of whom I am so fond;
They make it seem familiar and most dear,
As journeying friends bring distant countries near.

So close it lies, that, when my sight is clear,
I think I see the gleaming strand;
I know, I feel that those who've gone from here
Come near enough to touch my hand.
I often think but for our veiled eyes
We should find a heaven right 'round about us lies.

I cannot make it seem a day to dread
When from this dear earth I shall journey out
To that still dearer country of the dead,
And join the lost ones so long dreamed about.
I love this world, yet shall I love to go
And meet the friends who wait for me, I know.

I never stand about a bier and see
The seal of death set on some well loved face,
But that I think: "One more to welcome me
When I shall cross the intervening space
Between this land and that one over there—
One more to make the strange Beyond seem fair."

And so for me there is no sting to death,
And so for me the grave has lost its victory;
It is but crossing, with abated breath
And white, set face, a little strip of sea,
To find the loved ones waiting on the shore,
More beautiful, more precious than before.

LOCAL HISTORY.

great joy of fatherhood—more likely a constitution injured by overwork in New York. New York demands overwork—always did and always will.

"This was the first appearance of the mystic number thirteen in his life. His greatest sorrows, his greatest successes have come on the thirteenth. Rev. T. L. Cayler and Rev. W. W. Adams, New York men of note, had been his father's colleagues in this metropolis, and they went down to Maine to attend the funeral.

"After that the young widow and her remarkable boy remained quietly on the little Oxford County farm. Willie chased the squirrels in the fall, hunted the yellow lady's slipper in the birch woods, and studied all nature as roaming boys ever have, and ever will. Give me the boy who knows where the crows nest is and brown rabbit burrow. Some day he will stand before the people as an interpreter of God. He who knows how to read the characters printed on the papery bark of the birch tree will not long puzzle over the mysteries of the nations.

"When Mrs. Chapman married a second husband and came to New York to live, the boy was a big-eyed, strong limbed lad of thirteen years, and in his face was the imprint of the beauty of the Gilead mountains and the shadow of the mysteries of the hills of Bethel. He was sensitive, intelligent, artistic little fellow, bent upon one thing—that of being a minister and "showing the True Way to those Bound upon the Wheel." He was fourteen years old when his hard study injured his eyesight, and for months he had to lie in a darkened room. His companion and delight in those long hours was his mother's piano. Sometimes she would go softly into his prison and sitting at the instrument sing over to him the songs he loved to hear her sing at evening, when the moon rose over Mount Bessie, the mountain of his boyhood in Bethel. But more often he sat dreamingly making chords for his own amusement and pleasure. When he was stricken blind he could not play. When he was released from the darkness his music was wonderful. Into his piano playing he threw his whole soul. The boy had hoped that in preaching the gospel he might find a vehicle for the unsaid things in the heart. He hoped that by spoken words and example of an upright life he could satisfy the longing for the godlike in the heart and mind of men. Now he discovered that all the wondrous truths he had tried to put into words, the which his tongue refused to say, he could now pour out, better still, in his music, his piano playing. He had found his place, and iron things could not pull him away. So continually was he at his instrument, and such a mysterious and powerful effect did his random playing have upon his friends, his mother took him to S. B. Mills who was then the leading teacher of the piano in New York. He listened wrapt in wonder, and when at last he had stopped with a sigh, and the light died slowly out of his face, Mr. Mills exclaimed: "There is no boy in Manhattan save this one who can do that. It were a crime to make a preacher of him. He has translated more of God in this half hour than he could in years of preaching." Young Chapman longed for his Bethel mountains, as we all do for the loved things at home, but he kept at his practice. George F. Bristlow taught him harmony, and Dr. Cutter gave him organ lessons. When it comes time for him to go down in the country the summer he was sixteen years old, he was practicing thirteen hours a day, and they had to tear him away by main force. In those years his mother lived in a pretty house here at Fordham, twelve miles from City Hall, and he often used to walk over to the little white cottage on the Kingbridge road where the poet Edgar Allen Poe lived long ago with his Virginia. Or perchance he walked down to the little babbling river, the Bronx, where the gentle poet walked to commune with nature and nature's wild things. Mr. Chapman still owns property in Fordham, and the growth of the city has made it valuable.

"Before he was seventeen he was playing the church organ at Mamaroneck, on the Sound, at a salary of $500 a year. It was the church of Dr. Slicer, then a country minister, but more recently a distinguished city divine.

"Now came another mysterious number thirteen in his life. He worked like a Trojan, teaching, etc. The church of the Covenant at Thirty-fifth street and Park avenue asked him to play its organ. He did so and for thirteen years he did not miss a Sunday till the church was built over into the present one. He was at that time recognized as a leader in the first musical circles in New York. He was teaching thirteen public schools in Manhattan. I think that it was the long drilling he received in this capacity that fitted him to develop the best in the Maine choruses now under his care. It brought out and emphasized the rather remarkable personal magnetism of the man."

"Then he met his wife, the charming little woman who has proved again that two heads are better than one. She was a Chicago girl, the daughter of Mr. Samuel Faulkner a well known citizen of the Windy City. She came to New York to visit friends, and Mr. Chapman met her and fell in love. She was a musician, possessed of a good voice. They were married, and aided by her, he made still greater strides. He organized choruses in those rich old towns up on the Hudson, as well as in New York city. But New York was not then and is not now a great patron of music.

"Twelve years ago he heard the old farm at Bethel was for sale, and bought it. He has made over the buildings, turned it into a stock farm and summer home, and passes a good deal of time there. Last summer Mr. Chapman entertained a party of musicians there, among them Kate Vannah and Madame Lillian Blauvelt.

"A picture of Madame Blauvelt taken while she sat in a canoe at her summer home at Eustis, Me., looks down at me from the wall of my den. I'll send it along to show how successfully a great singer can unbend under the influence of the woods, the lakes, the fishing tackle, gun, and a canoe. Madame Blauvelt will soon return to America from a successful tour of Germany and England.

At present the pretty daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Chapman, Dimple, as they love to call her, is at home in Bethel where she is keeping the old home open with the help of Mrs. Mary Wiley, who is a daughter-in-law of the beloved Old Doctor Wiley. (Dr. Wiley, you know, is a brother of Lieut. Peary's mother. Have you read Mrs. Lieut. Peary's book 'Snow Babies?' It is worth reading.)

" 'How was it that you first happened to go down to Maine to give musical Festivals?' I asked Mrs. Chapman Tuesday night.

" 'Why, it was the suggestion of Annie Louise Cary Raymond,' she said. 'She helped us organize the Rubenstein Club and after the concert, one night, she came over to us and said "Mr. Chapman, I want you to do something for your own state—your state and mine. Go down and give some concerts there."

" 'I'll do it, if you will sing for me,' said my husband.

" 'Oh, I can't do that. I am out of it. But I love the old state and want you to give an annual festival there.' You know the rest. We went by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

It has been a great success. To get the finest stars and be able to pay them, we have organized in other states, but Maine is our first and greatest love.'
